

PERSONS AND SCENES THAT FIGURE IN THE NEWS OF THE DAY ABOUT A WORLD'S DOINGS

BACK TO THE PRIMITIVE ALONG THE ST. LAWRENCE
The French-Canadian peasantry near Cap a l'Aigle still bake in open-air ovens like the one shown above. Since Champlain's followers settled here the customs have not changed. Summer tourists go to this section in great numbers.

234 YEARS IN THIS GROUP
George Manypenny (centre), of this city, and his two brothers, Albert (left), and Harry, met in this city recently. George is 91 years old, Albert, 70, and Harry, 73. It was the first meeting between the two older brothers since 1855.

VOLUNTEERS PREPARING FOR WAR AGAINST AUSTRIA
The motley dress and improvised accoutrements of these Italian volunteers indicate to a degree how widespread is the war fever in Italy. Rifle practice is held in unfrequented streets and courtyards.

SHE'S CHANGED HER MIND
Some time ago "Count" Mourik de Beaufort, once known in Philadelphia as the "dude reporter," was reported to have been killed in Flanders. Miss Fayette Perry, a New York actress, his fiancee, says he's alive, but, nevertheless, she's decided not to marry him.

FIVE LEADERS OF THOUGHT AND ACTION IN THE TRANSPLANTED ITALY OF PHILADELPHIA

GIROLAMO TUMOLILLO, Banker

JOSEPH DE LAURENTIS, Banker

DR. VINCENT DE VIRGILIIS

DR. LORENZO CARLUCCI

D. DI GREGORIO, Importer